Only a Few Friends Attend Grace Church Ceremony, Which Is Performed by Rev. Dr. C. L. Slattery

Benefit at Southampton

Third and Last in Series of Entertainments for Soldiers' Home on Tuesday

Grace Church was the scene yesterday afternoon of the wedding of Mrs. Julia Gardner Gayley, of 20 Washington Square North, and Harbor Side, North East Harbor, Me., and Gano Dunn, of this city, son of the late General N. Gano Dunn. It was a very quiet affair and only relatives and a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery, who came down from Lenox especially to officiate. The bride had as attendants. Mr. Dunn dispensed with best man and ushers. On their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Dunn will live in this city.

Yesterday's bride, who is a daughter of the late Curtis Crane Gardner, obtained a divorce from her first husband, the late James Gayley, who was vice-president of the United States Steel Corporation, in 1909. Mr. Gayley died February 28 last. Mrs. Dunn has three daughters—the Countess Giulio Senni, who lives in Rome, Italy; Mrs. Gertrude H. Milken, of this city, and Mrs. Henry E. Montgomery 2d, who was married last June.

Mr. Dunn is an electrical engineer and was graduated from Columbia in 1911. He is a member of the Union, Century, Tuxedo and other clubs. During the war he was a member of the committee of the Council of National Defense.

B. Reese, Southampton, tonight. The artists will be Miss Eva Gauthier, who will be heard in songs in costume; Patricia Rogers, baritone, with Walter Goldie at the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson Jr. are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son last Monday at their home, 11 East Sixty-fourth street. The Tribune Fresh Air Fund

Help Rescue the Boys!

Boys! Boys! Boys!!!
"Please give us places for boys!"
From the East Side comes the plea. On the West Side it finds an echo. It is urgently repeated across the bridge and comes hailing down from Harlem and the Bronx.

All during the last month this is the message which has come ringing over the telephone wires into the office of The Fresh Air Fund from all sections of the city. "You've taken lots of our girls—thank you!" says the welfare workers who gather in the "Fresh Airs" for the fund, "but the boys haven't had their share of vacations."

Unfortunately, to a certain extent, this is true. But it is true through no fault or preference on the part of The Fresh Air Fund. At its Fresh Air homes and camps the accommodations for 1,000 children are about equally divided between the sexes. The girls having only a shade the better of the division. How then is the plea of the welfare workers justified?

Unfortunately again, Johnnie Fresh Air, as contrasted with his sister, Susie, has a bad reputation among the private hosts in the country who entertain the "Fresh Airs." They are not accommodated at The Tribune Fund homes and camps. It is not a reputation he deserves, for he's usually a mild-mannered, tractable, lovable lad, but he has it nevertheless.

It's a reputation built mostly upon the widespread, but false, theory that boys are harder to manage than girls. When a kind-hearted prospective country host is asked to take a boy home to a "Fresh Air" forty-nine times out of fifty he says "All right, but send me a girl. I'm afraid I couldn't manage a boy; he'd run me out of the house. I'd be a nervous wreck by the time he went home."

Almost forty-nine times out of fifty that's wrong, but there is no practical way of proving that fact to her. The result is that when lists of invitations come in from country committees they usually specify that about 98 per cent of the children to be sent must be girls. Of all the thousands of children sent out for vacations with private hosts this summer only a negligible number have been boys.
